Mr. Clawson of the Lakeside Hotel, South Lake Weir, was an Ocala visitor yesterday.

Judge Bullock is back home from a trip to Tavares, where he has been holding a term of court.

Mr. James A. Badger, one of the remnant of the "old guard," was among our Tuesday visitors.

Dr. R. D. Sistrunk of Dade City, a former citizen of our county, was here on a visit Sunday.

The Reading Club will meet with Minnie Gansby this afternoon at her home on Fort King avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Matthews of Candler are on a visit here, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Matthews.

The negro who was shot at Silver Springs last Saturday a week ago by Officer Tucker, died yesterday.

Sheriff Galloway, accompanied by his son, Jack, left Monday for Miami, where the sheriff's mother resides. Jack will remain there for some time.

Mr. Bradford C. Webb of the Standard Lime Works at Kendrick, was in to see us yesterday. He looks as if things at Kendrick are on velvet.

Mr. Nathan Mayo of Belleview was a Tuesday visitor. He says that a great deal of planting is being done in his neighborhood.

Little Mr. Martin J. Roess was christened in the Presbyterian church Sunday morning. His parents and paternal and maternal grandparents witnessed the ceremony.

Mrs. Royal Cole and her handsome little son, Chambliss, returned home Monday from East Lake, where they spent ten days very delightfully with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard of Michigan have arrived in Ocala. Mr. Leonard has a position with Mr. R. C. Camp at Dunnellon. They have rooms with Mrs. E. D. Blaine.

Mrs. G. H. Harrison, accompanied by her mother and little son, left here for Griffin, Ga., yesterday over the Seaboard, where they will spend several weeks.

Mr. Wilbur Counts has accepted a position at the Guarantee Clothing & Shoe Company's store in the Ocala House block. He goes about his work like an old stager, and will no doubt develop into an expert clothing salesman in a short time.

Messrs. R. E. Yonge, J. G. Ferguson and W. W. Clyatt are off attending the grand lodge of the Knights of Pythias at Miami. Mr. G. W. Martin was prevented from going on account of a broken collar bone.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter M. MacIntosh, living in the third ward, are rejoicing in the birth of a handsome son. This paper rejoices with them. Little children have been likened unto the "kingdom of heaven" and we cannot have too many of them.

Mr. W. H. Hopkins, who now has headquarters in Jacksonville, was among our visitors yesterday. He hopes to locate a branch house in Ocala and become a citizen amongst us once more. His friends here would certainly like for him to consummate his scheme.

Mr. Edwin W. Davis, state's attorney for the fifth judicial circuit, is back from Tavares, where he has been assisting in the holding of the spring term of the circuit court.

Vernal spring has at last arrived—but indeed with only an interruption of a few days we have been having spring weather all winter. Certainly the weather man has been more than partial to us.

Mr. Carlos Sistrunk, Ocala's rising young barrister, is back from Jacksonville, where he has been engaged in some important cases. He says that Jacksonville is growing in leaps and bounds.

The corn contest is going to enlarge to big proportions. We saw a farmer yesterday and he said that the farmers in his neighborhood were taking bold of the proposition in good shape and said that it would require a separate building to hold the corn exhibit at the county fair next fall. Dr. Booser struck the bull's eye when he hit upon the prizes that he is offering.

Mrs. Richard McConathy gave a delightful little party Saturday afternoon for her little niece, Miss Elizabeth Smith, of Kentucky. Each little guest showered the hostess with their good wishes and declared that they had had a good time. They enjoyed the afternoon pulling and eating candy.

Mrs. Julia S. Haisley left yesterday afternoon for Gainesville, and will go from that city in company with her niece, Mrs. Lynch to Miami, the "Magic City," where the Dade county fair is now being held, and the Knights of Pythias are holding their annual session. It is Mrs. Haisley's first visit down the east coast, and she is anticipating an interesting trip.

Mr. Coleman, the indefatigable minister of the Christian church in this city, continues to hold his tabernacle meetings and his hands should be held up. In patience, persistence and perseverance wins success it certainly ought to be his. The tent is large, it is well lighted, and during this pleasant weather is most comfortable and should be crowded. Go out and hear him present the great story as he sees it.

Capt. John L. Inglis left at noon yesterday for Jacksonville. He has been on a fishing expedition at Fort Myers, Charlotte Harbor, Boca Grande, and other places along the gulf. He says that Florida has as good fishing as any spot in the world. While at Fort Myers it was his good fortune to meet Mr. Edison, the greatest inventor of the ages. He is still in the enjoyment of good health, and continues to make nature reveal her mysteries.

Mrs. L. D. S. Curry, who was sick for so long a time, is dead, and was buried from her residence in Jacksonville last Sunday afternoon. She was a sister of Mrs. Henry W. Long of Martel, and was a woman of uncommon worth and her death is universally lamented by those who knew her. She was married to Capt. M. L. Curry, March, 1864, and her husband was killed the following November. In her bereavement Mrs. Long has the condolence of her friends and neighbors.

Adjutant General Foster has issued orders for the inspection of the state troops. The Ocala Rifles will be found A-1.

DATE FIXED FOR HOLDING THE NEXT COUNTY FAIR

A very splendid and representative meeting was held in the office of Sheriff Galloway last night to discuss and boost the Marion County Fair movement.

Our last fair was such a complete success and gave such universal satisfaction, and so much good was accomplished by it that our people generally are enthusiastic, and it is hard to find anyone in the town or county who is not a fair booster.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, November 24th, 25th and 26th were the days fixed for the holding of the fair. As Thursday, November 25th, is Thanksgiving Day it will give all the school children an opportunity of seeing the fair, as it will be a general holiday.

It was also decided that sufficient funds for erecting buildings and other betterments be raised by selling stock of the association, and that no stock be sold for less than par. It is believed that the association will soon be able to declare a dividend, and that the stock will be as good as a government bond.

It was also determined to print and distribute the premium lists as early as possible.

It was also moved that the directors employ a secretary, and the name of Mr. David S. Williams was suggested, as he had made such an excellent record last year.

Mr. Chambliss said that he would bring before the directors a list of prizes to be offered for the best acre of corn and cotton grown in the county, rules governing which would be formulated.

It was determined that it should be strictly a Marion County Fair, but that outside counties and outsiders generally would be invited to make exhibits, but would not be allowed to compete for any of the premiums.

The meeting was enthusiastic and optimistic from start to finish, and it may be set down as a fact that Marion will have a fair next November that will be a revelation and a gratification to every citizen of the county.

THE ROBBERS SUPPOSED TO HAVE BEEN CAUGHT

Some days ago a number of negro children found hid away in a clump of palmetto bushes nearly all of the goods that were stolen from the Globe store, the robbery being noted in these columns at the time. The officers of the law requested that no publicity be given to the recovery of the goods, as it was not positively certain that the real thieves had been caught, although they were apprehended at the time. Deputy Hutson went down to Juliette Saturday, but made no new discoveries. It is now believed that Buck Middleton and Hardie Williams, whom they caught at Citra, are the parties needed. Nearly all of the goods were recovered. It was a very fortunate find indeed, and Mr. Goldman is a very happy man.

Two evangelists, "Israelites of the House of David," have been preaching on our streets for the past several days. The headquarters of this denomination is at Benton Harbor, Mich. The faith requires them to live the simple life of apostolic times. They have six hundred and forty acres of land, are said to be good, industrious farmers and hold everything in common. The male members of the flock wear long hair and flowing beards, the same as the prophets and Christ and the apostles. The missionaries of this order are belting the globe and are gathering in recruits in great numbers. They own nice homes in Benton Harbor, have a brass band, automobiles and many of the up-to-date comforts of life. The two missionaries of the order visiting Ocala are intelligent men and their long, flowing locks make them look quite conspicuous. Their names are Wesley Schneider and Francis Wort.

Mr. William Harmon of Onaway, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Harmon of Lima, Ohio, are visiting in Ocala. Mr. Harmon, Sr., is the father of Mrs. James M. Gates, living near Mr. McIver's, and in the long ago was a resident of our city. Of course he sees great changes since that time. He says that when he left home the citizens were carrying lumber on sleds. Here he is met with almost summer weather. Ours is indeed a great country and embraces all sorts of climates. Mr. Harmon's old friends were glad to see him again, and this paper hopes that his visit will be a most pleasant one.

U. D. C. MEETING

Mrs. L. T. Izlar will entertain the Daughters of the Confederacy at their regular monthly meeting Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mr. Waldo Martin of Martin was in Ocala yesterday, looking the very picture of health. He is making a great success of farming and a gentleman who was visiting him a short time ago says that he is taking life easier and extracting more comfort from it than most anyone he knows. He has fine horses, fine cows, fine sheep, fine lands and meat and foodstuffs in abundance. Everything good that grows in the garden and the field finds its way to his table, besides the products from a well arranged dairy. You cannot visit Waldo Martin's farm, he says, and say that life is not worth living. "Back to the farm!" will be the cry some of these days, and when that day comes we will lead happier lives.

The government contractors are now receiving the heavy steel girders for the new postoffice building. They have placed the granite columns in position, and they give a massive appearance to the building. Other buildings which the government is erecting may have a look of greater grandeur, but Ocala is very proud of hers, so much so that she will not grow a bit envious of other cities. Ocala feels that Congressman Sparkman has done well by her, and in her thoughts he is always crowned with a wreath of flowers.

WHAT A BANK DOES

There are many ways in which it serves the public, but the one now most valuable perhaps, is to help with loans. We will meet the needs of conservative borrowers

DOROTHY TELLS CYNTHIA OF THE LATEST FASHIONS

The following original letter, written from Atlanta to a party in Ocala, gives the very latest fashion suggestions:

Dear Cynthia:

Such a round of gayeties you never could imagine—morning, noon and night; luncheons, teas, dinners and dances, and O, there are so many chic things everywhere. First, let me tell you about a French reception I went to yesterday. It was given by the French Club here, and only French was to be spoken. You know there is a great rage now for German and French both, and you really aren't fashionable unless you speak one or the other. Well, it was most amusing. Everybody would come in with their carefully prepared little speech, stammer it out, and then, with a sigh of relief, lapse into English. There were songs and extracts of plays given in French by the various members, "la belle langue" being appreciated to the utmost. You know I enjoyed it after staying so long in Paris.

And there were some awfully pretty gowns, too, everything directoire, mostly satins and some cloths. One especially I remember that could be worn either day or night. It was old rose satin, very short waisted, with yoke and sleeves of net, the same color as the gown. The waist was made with reverse back and front. The skirt was slit on the side and cut across the front downward from the slit side half way up the skirt to the hem on the other side, giving the apron effect, which is so much worn right at present. Where it was cut away, chiffon was let in. It was embroidered in large silk thread of the same shade at least, shading into old rose, the embroidery following the hem of the apron effect, running into the real hem, and also on the lapels—say, you can embroider, why don't you try something like this). And with this long, graceful robe was worn a large black satin hat, lined with old rose and a wreath of large hat roses around the crown. O, it was stunning! And a hat there was too delicious for words—I wanted it so. It was mushroom shape all around, except on the left side, where it rolled upward, the only trimming being a plume of the same shade, circling the left side, beginning in front under a large steel buckle and dropping off the back—C'est un reve.

Before I forget it, let me tell you the latest berath from Paris, for the spring: Striped skirt and plain jacket, especially black coats made on the directoire lines, and black and white striped skirts and hat to match—too chic for words. And with all of the winter suits, as with the spring suits, the collars and jabots play a large role. The daintiest I have seen were made of linen lawn, very fine. The collar was very high, made of one-ply goods, scalloped top and bottom with white linen thread embroidery dots, not heavy, scattered over it. With this collar, the jabot was made on the same order, edge scalloped and dots an inch and a half apart, along the edge. Where the jabot joins the collar is a satin bow of any color to match your suit—I shall make me a set. They don't take much time, but it saves you lots of money, as all of these little accessories are expensive, but they are invaluable to a well dressed girl or woman.

Well, my dear, I must stop, as I am really in a hurry, although it does not seem so by the length of this epistle, does it? Am crazy to tell you about the swellest dinner I went to, but I haven't time now—perhaps, later.

Mille bonnes choses,

DOROTHY.

Mr. D. W. Tompkins and Mr. C. V. Miller went down to Leesburg to bid on a number of mules of a "busted" lumber company. The animals were in a bad condition, and from all accounts have been so cruelly treated that those in charge of them ought to be looked after by the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals.

AN ANSWER

(Contributed to the Ocala Banner.)

Do you know you have asked for the costliest thing
Ever made by the hand above—
A woman's heart, a woman's life
And a woman's wonderful love?

Do you know you have asked for this priceless thing,
As a child might have asked for a toy?
Demanding what others have died to win,
With the reckless dash of a boy.

You have written my lessons of duty out;
Man-like, you have questioned me—
Now stand at the bar of my woman's soul
Until I have questioned thee.

You require your bread shall be always good,
Your socks and your shirts should be whole;
I require your heart to be true as God's stars,
And pure as heaven's your soul.

You require a cook for your mutton and beef—
I require a far better thing—
A seamstress you're wanting for your stockings and shirts;
I want a man and a king.

A king for the beautiful realm called home,
And a man that the Maker, God,
Shall look upon as he did the first,
And say, "It is very good!"

I am fair and young, but the rose will fade,
Will you have me then,
Mid the falling leaves,
As you did "mid the bloom of May?"

Is your heart an ocean, so strong and deep,
I may launch all my hope on its tide?
A loving woman finds heaven or hell
On the day she is made a bride!

I require all things that are good and true—
All things that a woman should be—
If you give this all, I would stake my life
To be all that you demand of me.

If you cannot do this—
A laundress, a cook, you can hire with little pay,
But a woman's heart and a woman's life
Are not to be thrown away.

OLA COLLINS,
Wesson, Mississippi.

Capt. Frank A. Lytle of Stanton was among our Monday visitors. He was born the year General Jackson was inaugurated president, learned to be a great admirer of the old hero, was present at his funeral and thinks that there are few characters in history more unique and illustrious. The captain was attacked by a vicious dog some time ago and was badly bruised and bitten and has not yet recovered from the effects of it, so he is more feeble than he otherwise would be. If he lives until the fifteenth of this month he will celebrate his 80th anniversary. That is a good old age to live, and it lived worthily and uprightly, as Capt. Lytle has done, it is something to boast of. His friends are congratulating him upon his approaching anniversary.
